Tony Lavoie, newly named acting program manager for NASA's Lunar Precursor and Robotic Program, says the decision on a robotic lander will be driven by the strategy for lunar surface operations, which is still in development. "It is not completely given that a robotic lander will be needed to support NASA's overall lunar objectives," Lavoie says. "This will be determined in the coming months." The Lunar Surface Access Module that is planned to deliver all types of payloads to the moon's surface will use a throttlable RL10 engine for descent. ### 北朝鮮テポドン2号の発射準備、政府は警戒継続

北朝鮮が長距離弾道ミサイル「テポドン2号」の発射準備を進めている 問題で、政府は18日も関係省庁の幹部らが情報収集や分析を行い、 警戒を続けた。

防衛庁では18日午後、額賀防衛長官や木村太郎副長官、守屋武昌次官、先崎(まっさき)一統合幕僚長ら主要幹部が集まり、米軍や海上自衛隊のイージス艦などの情報をもとに、北朝鮮の動向を分析した。その結果、18日中にミサイルが発射される可能性は低いが、引き

続き警戒が必要との認識で一致した。

額賀長官は18日夕、記者団に対し、「特別な変化があるわけではない。情報収集体制に万全を期すよう指示した」と語った。

政府内では、今回の北朝鮮の狙いについて、米国との直接交渉の機会を確保し、昨年9月以来続いている金融制裁を解除することが目的との見方が強い。ただ、最終的に発射に踏み切るかどうかについては見方が分かれている。
