

DEPARTMENTS

EDITOR'S NOTEBOOK

Hard questions for fast weapons

2

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Visiting other stars; fewer acronyms, please

4

IN BRIEF

Getting a grip; new details about 2011 drone collision

6

CONVERSATION

Seeing the future in the past

8

VIEW FROM HERE

Living lunar

12

OUT OF THE PAST

CAREER OPPORTUNITIES

42

46

FEATURES

ÜBER DRONES

The Pentagon likes the idea of Prompt Global Strike and wants to boost spending on the technologies.

by Michael Peck

16

FLYING ON ELECTRONS

NASA and European researchers are testing electric-propulsion technologies on small planes in hopes of having a big impact on the kinds of planes we fly in the next 10 to 15 years.

by Keith Button

24

10 QUESTIONS FOR THE CANDIDATES

We posed questions about aerospace to the presidential candidates. Did they rise to the challenge? You be the judge.

by Debra Werner

30

CLEAR FOR TAKEOFF

In Europe, air traffic controllers are beginning to direct planes in virtual control towers located far away from crowded airports. The trend has now come to the U.S.

by Jim Hodges

36

BULLETIN

AIAA Meeting Schedule

B2

AIAA News

B5

AVIATION 2016 Event Preview

B12

AIAA Courses and Training Program

B15

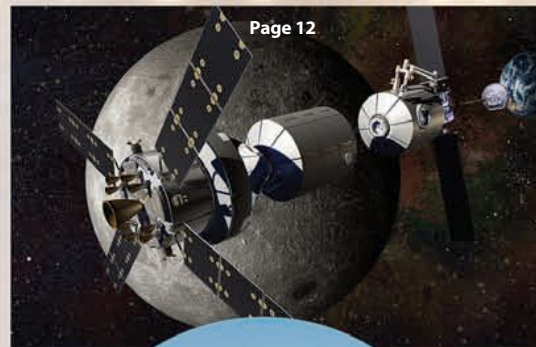

ON THE COVER

An artist's rendering of Falcon HTV-2.

Credit: Lockheed Martin

Page 6

Page 12

Page 24

Page 30